1. Traffic control by ambulance using PIC microcontroller

One of the major issues being faced by India is traffic congestion and when it comes to ambulance it gets severe. This project provides a solution for smoother ambulance transport without disturbing regular traffic.

2. Traffic anomaly detection and congestion solver using computer vision

The traffic management is important to reduce the accidents and traffic congestion. To detect the traffic rule violations and to avoid traffic congestion avoidance, the automation needs to be developed. In this approach we used the image processing and computer vision based system by focusing on basic traffic violations.
